Activities related to SDG 3: The University student counsellor organized an event to observe World Suicide Prevention Day on September 10, 2021. Self-harm tendencies are increasing tremendously, with students being the major affected group. Individual's life issues &amp; situations led him/her to choose death over life. But what important is that suicide is preventable and to spread awareness and talk about the subject, we at DITU intended to spread awareness among the students about this sensitive topic &amp; make students feel comfortable to talk about it. Members of Buddy Support Group, distributed affirmations &amp; words of happiness to random students on the campus &amp; acted on this year's theme, hope through action. Followed by this was an interactive session addressed by Ms. Zainab Faruqui, who shared insightful thoughts on idea of Self Love &amp; understanding one's self worth. She also made the students understand the seriousness of self-doubt &amp; how it leads one to a dark zone. She shared the insights on how to get out of the web of suicidal thoughts &amp; seek help to regain psychological well-being and get rid of faulty intrusive thoughts. The students were made familiar about the Counselling process &amp; solutions for getting rid of self-harming thoughts &amp; behaviour. A short film focusing on the idea of self-love &amp; acceptance &amp; believing in the inner beauty was showed to the students followed by an interaction with the students about the same. At the end of the session, a Let Go Activity was done, wherein the students penned down things in their life that are holding them back, &amp; later they made paper aero planes &amp; all of them flew it together, letting go of emotional baggage. Activities related to SDG 3: The student counsellor conducted an online session with the students, to ease out their worries &amp; anxiety due to upcoming online examinations. The Covid 19 wave was on its peak, and there was a prolonged negativity &amp; fear all around. It was that time of the year when semester finals are supposed to happen, and students &amp; faculty have to imbibe the new reality of online examination. The first year students had to go through the learning process and experience the graduation level semester examination, but this time it was little more difficult for them as now it has to be on online mode. They have to be mentally &amp; emotionally strong &amp; focused to sit for the examinations and moreover be accustomed to the online portal. With the same background to help them ease down their worries and clear up their queries, the session was conducted by the counsellor. The students were given tips &amp; ways for smart &amp; effective learning and addition to that were made aware of ways to cope up with the exam anxiety &amp; performance pressure. Following this was an interaction with the seniors who shared their own experiences of online examination and shared with them the various dos &amp; don'ts. Through vicarious experience, the first year students got familiar with the online examination concept and felt relaxed and settled. It was indeed a very useful &amp; productive session, letting students learn to tackle their exam related stress and apprehensions about online examinations.
